

Brigadier General René BAUMANN

Chief of Staff, Training and Education Command

Academic title Master of Science in National Security
Strategy, NDU, Washington DC (USA)

Service address Papiermühlestrasse 14, 3003 Bern

Current function

Brigadier General Baumann heads the Training and Education Command Staff. Assisted by his subordinate agencies, he provides the Chief of the Training and Education Command with comprehensive and professional support. He is directly accountable to the Chief of the Training and Education Command.

The Chief of Staff of the Training and Education Command is in charge of training directives and management, training planning, training support, resources, management services, recruitment, career development and advice, deployment and career planning, human resources, projects and development, shooting and off-duty activities.

Career

1995 Captain, commander LOS company of a signal regiment

1999 Major General Staff, GS officer in signal brigade staff

2001 Lieutenant colonel General Staff, commander of signal battalion

2004 Assistant chief of staff training of command support brigade

2006 Deputy chief of staff in a territorial region

2008 Colonel General Staff, school commander

2015 Brigadier General, commander training unit

Functions

1997 Career officer at signal NCO school and recruit school

1999 Sub-project manager for recruitment, Armed Forces XXI project

2002 Deputy commander recruitment centre

2003 Training and operations chief of signal and command support training unit

2006 Deputy commander telematics training unit

2008 Commander telematics training unit

2012 National Defense University, Washington DC (USA), Master of Science in National Security Strategy

2013 Commander recruitment

2015 Commander command support training unit

2018 Commander command support training unit

2023 Chief of staff, training and education command